

REL HT/1205

A BESPOKE 12IN driver and 500W NextGen5 Class D amplifier do the grunt work in REL's good-looking subwoofer, and conjure a performance that exceeds expectations given the appealing price. The HT/1205 – the larger model in the company's new range of movie-focused designs – revels in chaotic soundmixes, attacking bass transients with a sledgehammer punch and maintaining a tight grip as the volume is nudged higher; there's a scale here that belies the sub's compact dimensions. Setup is blissfully straightforward, too, with wireless connection a possibility via REL's optional HT-Air accessory. This is a bold, big-sounding bargain.
